PECSRL 2014
UNRAVELING THE LOGICS OF LANDSCAPE
Gothenburg & Mariestad • 8–12 September 2014

We are pleased to announce the 26th session of The Permanent European Conference for the Study of the Rural Landscape, to be held on 8–12 September 2014.

The PECSRL is organized biennially on different locations throughout Europe. This time, the conference will be hosted by the University of Gothenburg, Sweden and held at two locations, linked by a full day of excursions. These will take the participants from the coastal city of Gothenburg to the town of Mariestad, situated within the biosphere reserve Lake Vänern Archipelago and Mount Kinnekulle.

The leading topic, which we hope will become an impulse for a fruitful exchange of thoughts, is Unraveling the Logics of Landscape. Despite conceptual oscillations through times, the concept of landscape remains highly subjective, whereupon unraveling its 'logics' opens up to a plurality of interpretations. Accordingly, by focusing on the interconnections present in the non-haphazard production of landscape, the conference will elaborate on how the rural landscape is valued, monitored, changed, harbored, used and misused, be it through actions, representations or metaphors. We hope to see you in Sweden to take part in sharing convictions, doubts and ideas on how to best unravel the complex logics of landscape.

We kindly invite you to mark the PECSRL 2014 dates in your calendar, and inform other colleagues who might be interested in attending the conference.

On behalf of the Organizing Committee,

Marie Stenseke
Conference Chair
